This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. CAMBRIDGE CARICATURES

CAMBRIDGE CARICATURES

1. Pedantius (? Thomas Cecil or William Marshall). 1631.

This print is described in the British Museum Catalogue as a portrait of Dr Thomas Beard, Oliver Cromwell's schoolmaster, and a Puritan minister in Huntingdon, but is declared by Prof. Moore Smith to be more probably imaginary. It forms the frontispiece to a play entitled, "Pedantius. Comœdia, olim Cantabrig. acta in Coll. Trin."

University Library.

2. A Portrait.

J. H. f. 1755.

Described in Fitzwilliam Museum collection as "An oyster man at Cambridge, called 'Old Coe.' Etching by Mr John Holland of Peterhouse."

Fitzwilliam Museum.

3. A Shoeblack.

T. Orde f. 1763.

The copy of this print in the Fitzwilliam Museum collection describes the original as of Peterhouse, but the copy in Mr H. D. Catling's collection assigns her to Trinity. Orde, the etcher, was of King's, but did not confine himself to servants of his own college.

Fitzwilliam Museum.

4. A Portrait.

T. Orde invenit et fecit 1768.

The copy in the Fitzwilliam Museum collection is entitled: "Shoeblack, Caius College."

Fitzwilliam Museum.

5. A Portrait.

T. Orde f. 1768.

The copy in the Fitzwilliam Museum collection bears the inscription: "John Willer, whose father is a gardener. He goes about selling fruit."

Fitzwilliam Museum.

6. A Portrait.

T. Orde f. (c. 1768).

The Fitzwilliam Museum copy of this etching bears the inscription, "Mother Hammond: fruitseller at Cambridge." Cooper (Annals IV), under date 1785, records, "On the 19th of December, died at Spital House End, the widow Hammond, aged 102."

Fitzwilliam Museum.

7. (Randal & Hammond) (No. 1).

Fitzwilliam Museum.

9. A Shoeblack or Bedmaker.

Topham invenit et fecit (c. 1770).

This print probably represents a well-known character of Trinity College, of which foundation Topham was first a pensioner and afterwards a Fellow-commoner.

Fitzwilliam Museum.

10. A Bedmaker.

Topham fecit (c. 1770).

"It is true," says Gunning, under date 1786, "the bedmakers in those days were not sufficiently paid, and it was a prevailing custom amongst them to help themselves to what they considered 'little necessaries'; yet they watched most perseveringly over their masters' interests, and would not allow them to be imposed on in any other quarter."

14. Eques Cantab.

H. W. Bunbury delineavit. J. Bretherton fecit.

Published as the Act directs May 1772. By J. Bretherton, No. 134, New Bond Street.

By the 9th of the celebrated "Orders and Regulations" of 1750, riding on horseback was forbidden to persons in statu pupillari at Cambridge, unless they had special leave, but apparently the order was disregarded, or overlooked to a great extent, as fox-hunting was the theme of one of the sets of Tripos verses in 1791.

15. Cantab.

H. W. Bunbury delineavit.. J. Bretherton fecit.

Published as the Act directs May 2, 1772. By J. Bretherton, No. 134, New Bond Street.

9″ × 7″.

Below the design in the British Museum copy is written in pencil, probably by the hand of Miss Banks, to whose collection this print belonged, "Mr Bunbury's Tutor." But most likely it represents the Rev. Sam. Peck, Fellow of Trinity.

Cambridge Antiquarian Society.

16. The Christmas Academicks. Playing a Rubber at Whist.

H. Bunbury delineavit (1770—5).

Though card-playing was forbidden by the Statutes of the University (1750) and of some of the Colleges, except at Christmas, and then only in the College Hall and with moderation, it was complained in 1792 that cards were played in private rooms and even in the Combination Room.

24. [Robert Foster, the "Flying Barber"].

I. Bearblock, King's College Invenit. I. K. Baldrey Excudit (c. 1785).

Hone says that Foster was for many years "hairdresser to Clare Hall, and an eccentric but honest fellow." Dyer informs us that he obtained the title of the flying barber "on account of his rapidity in conversation, in walking, and more particularly in the exercise of his profession." Gunning states that he was Dr Farmer's barber.

26. The Triumphal entrance of a PECK Loaf into Grandchester.

Published May 1*st*, 1787, by A. Aldbery, Strand, London.

The Rev. Samuel Peck was one of the Senior Fellows of Trinity, who lived at Grantchester during the latter part of the 18th century. He was very eccentric but, owing to his knowledge of law, country people were wont to resort to his rooms for legal advice. On being asked his fee, he would say, "Oh! I shall not make any charge, but you can bring me a goose, a couple of fowls, a joint of pork, or anything that your farm produces."

Fitzwilliam Museum.

28. A Portrait.

Ars patet omnibus.

There are two copies in the Fitzwilliam Museum collection, one plain, the other coloured. Beneath the former is written, "Dr Ewin of Cambridge—1790."

In 1778, Dr Ewin of St John's College appeared in the Vice-Chancellor's Court to answer a charge of having lent money at usurious interest to Wm. Bird, a scholar of Trinity College, during his minority, without the consent of his tutor. He was found guilty and sentenced to be suspended from all degrees taken or to be taken, and expelled the University. On an appeal, the suspension was confirmed, but his expulsion was revoked. In the following year he was restored to his degrees by a mandamus from the King's Bench.

48. Jacklin—Shaver and Poet, Cambridge. (c. 1810—20.)

Horne says: "John Jacklin was 'well-liking' and well-known to Alma Mater as a shaver, a poet, and an 'odd fellow.' Good humour hung pendant on the very tip of his tongue, and a thousand funny sayings poured from his lips...." He died December 25, 1825, aged seventy-four, "respected and lamented by all who knew him."

53. Term Time.

Wm Mason, delineavit. (c. 1815.)

In this print Gordon appears to be engaged in coaching a Fellow-Commoner. He was a classical scholar of considerable attainments, "had Horace at his fingers' ends, and was in the habit of quoting him with considerable effect."

H. D. Catling.

54. Non Term. (Reprint.)

Published by R. Dimmock, King's Parade, Cambridge. (c. 1815.)

The companion picture to the foregoing. "For many years," says Gunning, "this extraordinary character [Gordon] infested the streets, swearing and blaspheming in the most horrible manner, the magistrates not interfering, from a reluctance to expose themselves to his violent and abusive language. At length the nuisance became intolerable, and Jemmy usually passed nine or ten weeks of every quarter in the Town Gaol."

H. D. Catling.

55. James Gordon of Cambridge.
